FOREWORD

The editors of The Tower have tried to make it your book, containing all the various aspects of activity in the school from the least to the greatest. We have tried to give a picture of the school that will bring back in later years memories of each individual phase of its intricate program. The purpose of this policy has been to publish a book between whose covers can be found the means of refreshing your mental picture of the years spent at Manhasset, even after they have faded into the dim nothingness of bygone experiences.

FRANCIS CARLSON

The junior class this year was made up of a number of outstanding students who contributed greatly to the success of the school year. It was through the efforts of Bob Lubbers, a junior artist, that the decorations for the senior prom were such a success. Last fall a group of junior boys suggested and carried out many of the amusing features of the Hallowe'en Party. The boys' basketball and football teams this year would have had a difficult time if it hadn't been for the junior members, such as Adam Grik. In the girls' sports the honor basketball and hockey squads were made up largely of junior girls. One of the senior class's most important jobs is the publishing of the Cub Reporter. Many juniors this year went out for "Cub" to prepare themselves for next year's job.

You couldn't help noticing the junior boys' interest in candid photography. They were taking shots all over the school, and you never knew when one of them might approach you and say, "Look at the picture I took of you." You looked at what seemed at first to be a mangled mass, but on closer observation you realized that it was you in a very unflattering pose or lack of pose. Edward Roberts, a junior, is president of the Camera Club.

The junior year is in a way a training period in which to prepare a class to shoulder the responsibilities which naturally fall upon the seniors. The present senior class need have no qualms concerning the capability of the juniors to carry on the precedents set by previous classes. This year they have shown by participation in various sports and extra-curricular activities that they are thoroughly competent.

Sophomore Class

CLIFFORD BISSLER

President

During past years, and especially this year, the sophomore class has shown creditable interest in school activities.

The students in this class entered the new high school in 1936 as freshmen, with David Steele as president and representative in the G. O. Council. They took part in many activities of the school, such as basketball, football, hockey, freshman lacrosse and dramatics. During the year the school play, "Thunder on the Left," was given. Gale Boyce and Betty Foulk, as freshmen, took part in the production.

When these students became the sophomore class in September, 1937, they elected Clifford Bissler president. Also elected by the entire student body as secretary of the General Organization in the present year was David Steele, a Sophomore. Both of these boys have participated in the G. O. Council meetings.

The color bearers were organized this year and Alex Leslie, a sophomore, was chosen as a color guard.

Betty Reilly, a sophomore, has given a great deal of assistance at assemblies by playing the piano, both for the students to march into and out of the auditorium and for the singing of songs during the assembly programs.

In the fall of this year the play "Skidding" was given and Virginia Gale and Gale Boyce, sophomore girls, took part. This spring "A Face in the Mirror" was given and Alex Leslie, Robert Riebow, and William Kennelly took part.

A number of members of the class are participants in the band and orchestra and many also take part in the choruses.

Since this class is showing such creditable interest and action in the school activities, they have shown that they will be an honor to the school for the remaining years of their high-school career.

Freshman Class

ETHEL TAYLOR

President

Although the freshman class is actually just beginning its high-school career, its members have already shown a coöperative spirit by participating in the activities of the school.

As eighth graders the freshmen entered our new high school in the fall of 1936. They entered into the activities of the school immediately and displayed true school spirit. Many of them participated in sports, clubs, chorus, band, and orchestra.

In this year's play, "Skidding," Frank Adams was chosen stage manager. This spring, the cast of "The Face in the Mirror" included Dorothy Matthews, Helen Hobe, Carolyn Cate, and Louis Pisciotta. Their acting, along with the acting of the other members of the cast, helped to entertain us in one of our many assemblies and certainly added credit to our Dramatic Club.

Fred McGuire was elected President in 1936-1937, and this year the freshmen chose Ethel Taylor to represent them on the G. O. Council.

As for participating in sports, the whole freshman class has shown considerable interest. Marion Andrews was elected to represent the junior high school girls on the Athletic Council. A new game was introduced among the boys' athletics this year, six-man football. Many freshmen went out for this sport and after a great deal of hard work and training were chosen to make up part of the six-man team.

Many freshman boys and girls took part in the chorus, glee club, orchestra and band. This year Mr. Otto Lagervall planned an outdoor spring musical festival in which many freshmen participated.

Another point to their credit is that a few of the freshmen are already looking ahead and are working for their Silver M. Some of them work in the office and library during and after school hours.

An admirable school spirit has been shown in the freshman class. Certainly they will continue their activity throughout the whole of their high-school career.

ACTIVITIES

G. O. Council

— 1938

The G. O. Council is an executive committee which plans and discusses necessary changes in the school rules. Its members consist of the officers of the General Organization and the class presidents. During the school year of 1937 and 1938 the council, among other things, has reorganized the assembly programs and introduced the practice of saluting the flag. It has also conducted a general clean-up campaign involving conduct in and around the school.

Proctors

The Proctor Squad was organized in 1936 and is in keeping with the idea of student government. The squad is composed mostly of senior volunteers who have good standing in their school work and are efficient in carrying out their duties. The squad directs traffic in the halls, prevents disorder and in general keeps the students reasonably quiet in their conduct. The proctors are not only on duty during the intervals between classes, but also before and after school and they have the duty of enforcing school regulations at any time. Therefore the proctors are granted certain privileges.

TOWER —

The Tower

There has not been a yearbook in Manhasset since 1927, and so this year's senior class decided to start a new series of annuals. It hopes that The Tower will set a precedent for many years to come. The purpose of The Tower is to serve as a lasting memento of the years spent in high school, working and playing. There has been much interest evinced in the publishing of the book as more than a third of the senior class turned out to work on it and almost fifty per cent of the school bought copies.

Cub Reporter

The Cub Reporter was started in 1925 by Vinal H. Tibbetts, superintendent of schools, and a small group of students. The paper originally had a three-column page, but in 1930 the makeup was changed and it now has a four-column page. A complete file has been kept since the start of the paper and it constitutes a permanent record of school life for the last thirteen years. Since 1930 the Cub Reporter has been submitted to the annual Columbia Scholastic Press Association Contest, where it competes for ratings with other schools in the United States.

Band

— 1938

Our Manhasset High School band was organized in 1927-28 by Kendall B. Howard, and during the following two years was directed by Miss Edna A. Crance. Its slow but steady growth finally justified the engaging of a full-time instructor in instrumental music, and in 1931, Otto L. Lagervall took charge of the band and orchestra. Pupils were started on the various instruments and free group lessons given to beginners.

This year the band was composed of approximately forty members. There are a full band, an advanced band and also a junior band.

Orchestra

The orchestra, which was instituted at the same time as the band, has been an important element in the music department ever since. It contributes to the school concerts and furnishes the music for the school plays. Every year there is a Long Island music contest and festival at which schools from every part of the Island are represented. The orchestra, as well as the band and chorus, has taken part in the festival for the past three years and several students have entered the contest as soloists. Winners are eligible for the State contest.

Boys Chorus

The boys chorus, consisting of about fifty-six members from the senior high school, studies three- and four-part songs that are suitable to their ability and to their voice range. Each year they take part in concerts given by the school for the general public. The boys, as well as the girls, have been emphasizing tone, quality, blending of parts, intonation and interpretation. A chorus consisting of boys and girls takes part in the annual Music Festival of Long Island, and some of the members enter the vocal contest.

Girls Chorus

The girls chorus, containing about one hundred and fifty voices, is made up of students who are interested in learning more about singing. Membership in this organization is not determined by one's ability to sing, as it is in the choir, but by one's desire to sing. The girls work on the same principle as the boys, also singing part songs, and the two groups combine to form a mixed chorus. During last year chorus work was given a definite place in the daily schedule and was no longer considered an extra-curricular activity.

Camera Club

The Camera Club, started in 1934 by a group of students interested in learning about photography, has grown rapidly. Members of this club took a large number of group pictures for the Tower.

Chefs Club

The Chefs Club, inaugurated in 1937, gives would-be cooks a chance to display their talents. Its purpose is to correlate chemical principles with actual cookery, as most of the chefs are chemistry students. The club is open only to boys.

Choir

The Choir, which was started in January, 1938, is an honor group for those members of the junior and senior classes who have special vocal ability.

Color Bearers

The color bearers are a recent addition to the assembly programs, which have undergone a change during the last year. The bearers hold and escort the American and school flags during the "salute to the flag" at all assemblies.

Dramatic Club

Each year the Dramatic Club presents a three-act play for the benefit of the G. O. and also several one-act plays. The main plays during the last four years have been "Penrod," "Seventeen," "Thunder on the Left," and "Skidding."

French Club

The French Club was organized in 1937 and was named "Les Amateurs." Every meeting of this club is conducted entirely in French, and many number, spelling, and grammatical games necessitating the speaking of French are played at these meetings.

German Club

The "Deutscher Verein," which is the name of the German Club, was formed in 1933. The club meets once every two weeks and has shown a number of movies dealing with different aspects of life in Germany and with German industries and arts.

Prom Committee

The members of the student committees which are in charge of the Junior and Senior Proms do a great deal of work, decorating, advertising, selling tickets, and getting the orchestra, in order to make the most important dances of the school year successful.

Service Squad

Members of the Service Squad are those students who volunteered to help with office and library work and with G. O. activities. They perform such services as selling candy, collecting attendance slips, and acting as assistant librarians.

Silver M Society

The Silver M Society was organized in June, 1930, for the purpose of rewarding students for their work in extra-curricular activities. Originally Silver M was an alumni society offering membership only to graduating seniors, but in 1937 it admitted as pledge members those juniors who showed the greatest promise for the future.

Stamp Club

The Stamp Club was organized in 1934 for the purpose of furthering student interest in philately, trading specimens, and learning of the various issues of different countries. This year the club has been conducted by Frank Thader, president, Fred Schumacher, vice-president, and Raleigh Bishop, faculty advisor.

Cheer Leaders

The duty of the cheer leading squad is to lead the school cheering at rallies and games and also to teach all new cheers to the student body. William Tracy has been head of the squad for the past two years.

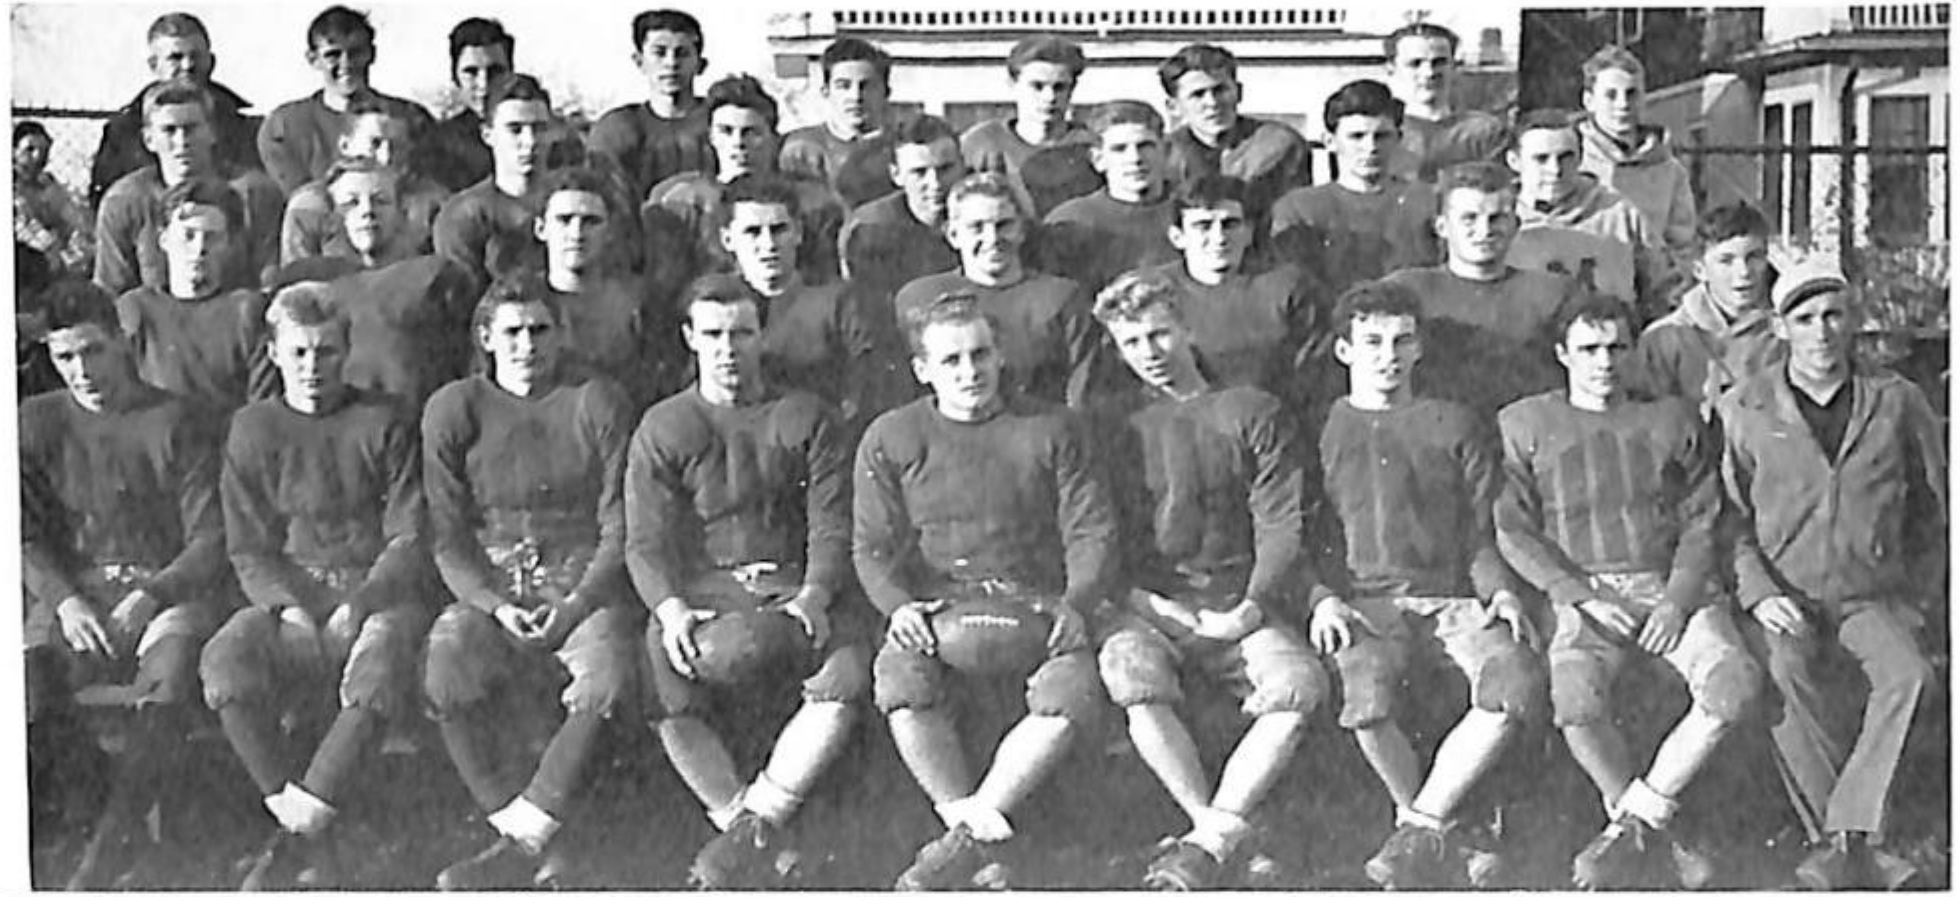

ATHLETICS

Football

— 1938

Two years ago Manhasset rearranged its football schedule, dropping five schools and adding Stony Brook, Babylon, Huntington, Lindenhurst, and Farmingdale. The first year under this policy was very successful, with the Orange and Blue emerging victorious in six of its seven encounters, succumbing only to Garden City. During the season of 1937 the Orange and Blue eleven again rose to gridiron heights, losing but one of their seven games. This year's team, nine of whom are graduating seniors, leaves a record of but two defeats out of the fourteen games played under the new policy.

Basketball

Basketball started at Manhasset in 1920, when the Orange and Blue played their first complete schedule of games against other schools. In looking over the record of this year's team, one sees that it did not have a very successful season, but that the players tried to do their best at every game. Several of the games were lost by mere points, showing that the boys had the true fighting spirit of Manhasset. The team rang down the curtain on the home season with a thrilling win over Great Neck, Manhasset's traditional rival.

In 1922 the first Manhasset baseball team was formed, and "the great American game" has continued in Manhasset through fair weather and foul for sixteen years.

Last season the team was composed of many players who lacked experience, and graduation resulted in the loss of several of our most valuable men. However, with the experienced players of last season and this year's promising crop of new players, the team should be stronger in all departments, and should give rival nines many tense moments until the final out is made.

Lacrosse

Manhasset's lacrosse teams, wearing the Orange and Blue, have been uniformly successful, boasting two championship teams, an undefeated freshman team and a championship junior varsity. Two years in a row, 1936 and 1937, the varsity has taken second place in the Metropolitan-Long Island Lacrosse League. The highlights of the 1937 campaign, which brought nine victories as against two defeats, were the last-minute victory over the plebes at West Point and the inspired rally which beat the Union College freshmen, when Manhasset was trailing by two points near the end of the last quarter.

Boxing Club

Boxing was added to the winter sports program this year when the boys organized a Boxing Club. At meetings the members trade punches while learning the theory and essentials of boxing. Footwork and shiftiness are taught to the boxing aspirants.

Fencing Club

Fencing was started in the school in 1933 by Adolph Wulff, German instructor, and since then the team has flourished as an interscholastic competitor. However, this year the squad was organized into a club to further its members' knowledge of fencing.

Six-Man Football

The first Six-Man Football Team on Long Island wore the Orange and Blue of Manhasset. Pathé News took movies of the teams in action last fall, and they served to introduce the game in the East.

Tennis

Tennis became one of the spring sports in 1927. This year's team was well-favored by having four veteran players left from last year. Great Neck, Roslyn and Port Washington are all played by Manhasset's team.

Girls Athletic Council

— 1938

The girls athletic program underwent a complete change this year. The slogan, "Maximum activity for maximum numbers," was adopted, and all the girls were encouraged to enter into at least one athletic activity. The school was divided into two color teams, a Blue Team, captained by Marianne Newman, and an Orange Team, captained by Mabel Donno. The governing body, which consists of Rex M. Cate, Miss Eleanor Whitney, sport heads, color team captains, assistants, and the faculty advisers of each team, is known as the Girls Athletic Council. Also a new method of awarding school letters was adopted.

Girls Athletic Activities

A great variety of sports has been offered to the girls under the new system. These include bowling, deck tennis, ping-pong, archery, riding and tennis, as well as the usual major sports. Each sport is organized as a separate unit, with a student head and a faculty adviser in charge. The representatives of the two color teams do their utmost to win for their team in the sport tournaments.

The tournaments first determine the best Orange and Blue teams in a sport and then decide which color team is the champion in each sport.

Basketball

The basketball team for interscholastic competition consisted of the Honor Squad, whose members were picked from the most outstanding players in the Color Team tournament. This tournament, which decided the color championship in basketball, was won by the Blue Team.

Hockey

Twenty-five members of the girls hockey team which this year for the first time played in the Long Island High School Girls Hockey Tournament, received hockey letters as a reward for outstanding playing and work in hockey last fall.

Volley Ball

The first sports day ever to occur in Manhasset was under the auspices of the volley ball teams which played hosts to Roslyn, Port Washington and Great Neck during an afternoon of games, followed by supper and singing in the cafeteria.

Fencing

A fencing team for girls was organized this year under the supervision of Adolph Wulff, German instructor. Although there has been boys' fencing in previous years, this is the first time that the girls have been given an opportunity to learn fencing techniques.

COMPLETE MANUFACTURING

At The Country Life Press

We offer you the facilities which are required to produce outstanding publications, college annuals, house organs, and periodicals similar to those illustrated.

Because of the excellence of workmanship and the high honors awarded our products in open contests it is suggested that you should avail yourself of a like opportunity to have your printing and publishing problems handled by us.
